DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-7 are presented for examination.

Paper Submitted

2. It is hereby acknowledged that the following papers have been received and placed of record in the file:
 - a. Information Disclosure Statements as received on 3/15/2002 is considered.

Drawings

3. The drawings are objected to because of the following informalities.
 - a. Presented drawings are difficult to read.

A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

5. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Quine et al.,
Hereinafter Quine.
6. Referring to claim 1, Quine teaches a method for defining an electronic address (page 2 [0012]), comprising:
 - a. selecting a preferred domain name (page 2 [0012] lines 7-9);
 - b. selecting one or more allowable domain names (page 8 [0079] lines 5-7);
 - c. selecting a preferred address format (page 8 [0079] lines 9-12);
 - d. selecting one or more allowable address formats (page 2 [0012] lines 3-5);
 - e. retaining the preferred domain name, the one or more allowable domain names, the preferred address format, and the one or more allowable address formats to define the electronic address (page 8 [0079] lines 12-13).
7. Referring to claim 2, Quine teaches the method of claim 1, further comprising acquiring a text string associated with a preferred electronic address and retaining the text string to further define the electronic address (figure 7 [0079] data formats are presented in a various orders of text strings.)
8. Referring to claim 3, Quine teaches the method of claim 2, wherein in acquiring the text string, the text string is dynamically acquired from a directory object, when present in the directory object (see figure 7, when a particular format is being selected, the real first name and last name are acquired dynamically to form the electronic address).
9. Referring to claim 4, Quine teaches the method of claim 2, wherein in acquiring the text string, the preferred electronic address is calculated from a directory (figure 7, preferred electronic address is calculated from the directory of first and last name.)

10. Referring to claim 5, Quine teaches the method of claim 1, wherein in selecting the preferred address format and the one or more allowable address formats, the formats include one or more subcomponents (figure 7 [0079] format could be consisting first name and last name.)
11. Referring to claim 6, Quine teaches the method of claim 1, wherein in selecting the preferred address format and the one or more allowable address formats, the one or more subcomponents are order independent within the preferred address format and the one or more allowable address formats (figure 7, formats list 701, subcomponent LAST is independent to subcomponent FIRST.)
12. Referring to claim 7, Quine teaches the method of claim 1, wherein in selecting the preferred address format and the one or more allowable address formats, the preferred address format and the one or more allowable address formats include one or more subcomponents, and wherein the one or more subcomponents include at least one of an electronic login name, an administrator defined identification, a first name, a last name, a middle initial, a middle name, and a nick name (see figure 7.)

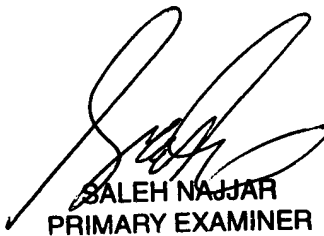

Conclusion

13. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Applicant is reminded that in amending in response to a rejection of claims, the patentable novelty must be clearly shown in view of the state of the art disclosed by the references cited and the objection made. Applicant must show how the amendments avoid such references and objections. See 37 CFR 1.111(c).
